“ I have been lucky enough to have been personally coached by Marcus Wheelhouse over the past few years and cannot speak highly enough of his teaching ability. On a corporate level, my company Mondiale has also used Marcus' services for many golfing functions during this time, in both speaking and playing capacities. He has made each of these occasions very enjoyable due to his professional nature and energetic personality. ”

MARCUS WHEELHOUSE

Marcus is a former touring golf professional turned teaching professional, who hosts corporate golf days, holds golf clinics and coaches all levels - from recreational golfers, to some of New Zealand's top professionals. He is also a commentator for the NZ Open on Sky TV.

Marcus has enjoyed plenty of success - he was ranked number one amateur golfer in the world in 1995 and awarded Auckland sportsman of the year. After he turned professional in 1996, Marcus was named rookie of the year on the Australasian tour. He played in Europe for five years on the challenge tour, then went to the USA to play on the Nationwide and Mini tours, returning to New Zealand in 2007, after an injury. Marcus is now a qualified Class A PGA member and coaches some of the best up and coming players in the country. He is also the tour player representative on the NZPGA board and still plays in varied Pro Am events.

“ We had our inaugural Unitec Charity Golf Day at the Akarana Golf Club where Marcus supported Unitec in raising $20,000 for the Men's Health Trust. Marcus provided our corporate clients and sponsors with useful tips pre game and was extremely pro-active on the course. He ran our charity auction in the evening ensuring participants had a few laughs over dinner whilst motivating them to dig deep into their pockets to help raise funds. Marcus's reputation and professional approach added significant value and ensured our event was a huge success. ”
